Art Unit: 2193

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-7, 9-11 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kasper et al, recorded reference.

As per independent claim 1, Kasper et al discloses, e.g., see Figs. 3 and 9-10, the invention as claimed except the “transimpedance element”; however, the “transimpedance element” is old and well known in the art for converting the current I to voltage V. Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person in the art to couple a “transimpedance element”, i.e., a current to voltage converter in the output (303, 403) of Kasper et al to made the claimed invention.

As per claims 2-7, 9-11 and 15, the detail features are obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art.

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Shou et al disclose, e.g., see Fig. 8 and Abstract, a filter has current to voltage converter which is coupled to the out of the filter.
